

Instructions:

Method: facilitation cards

Time: about 30 minutes

Objective: find out the participants' centres of interest and expectations for the training

Group: individual work, then sharing result with the whole group

Equipment:

- facilitation cards
- markers

Expectations of the participants

Contents and plan:

The participants write down on the cards what they expect from the training. One card = one idea.

Each participant then presents their expectations. The cards are collected by a trainer and classified by theme. The cards can be glued onto paper and displayed in the training room until the training is complete.

Trainers should explain which of the expectations may be met and which fall outside the scope of the training.

For consideration:

At the end of the training, the participants can review what they have learned and see if their expectations have been met.

Variation:

Each participant presents their expectations and keeps their cards in their folders till the evaluation at the end of the training.
